Our team represents a diverse range of backgrounds and skills, enhancing our ability to approach the project from multiple perspectives.

Analytical Thinkers (ENTP, INFJ): Contributes to structure, innovation and logical reasoning.

Empathetic Idealists (INFP): Enhance harmony, communication and interpersonal understanding in teams.

Balanced Leadership: Lakshika (ENTP) takes dynamic guidance and crucial, with Sailaja and Jahnavi (INFPs) providing emotional sophistication and reflectiveness, with a sense of inclusiveness and respect for others.

Creative collaboration is the result of interaction between F (Feeling) and N (Intuition) types, with open communication and support for each other; thus interaction would be a great strength for communication skills based project. Together, they include a combination between thinking strategically and emotional capability, both key to understanding and enhancing interpersonal communication.

SWOT Analysis of Team 9

Strengths	Weaknesses	Opportunities	Threats
High empathy & emotional intelligence of team members, fosters understanding and collaboration	Over-analyse or idealizing tendencies for INFP & INFJ, thus, slows down decision-making	To improve interpersonal and communication skills through mutual feedback	Emotional burnout during conflict resolution
Balanced combination of analytical (ENTP/INFJ) and creative/imaginative (INFP) personalities, enabling both the strategic and empathetic approaches	Possible communication gaps due to different levels of introversion	Potential to leverage individual empathy for leadership and teamwork development	Relying too much on everyone agreeing might actually stop people from having useful arguments
Common vision for co-operation and mutual learning	Difficulty for quick decision-making under pressure	Scope to strengthen assertiveness and active listening through the role-based collaboration and discussions	Misinterpretation of feedback due to different communication styles
Strong communication and leadership potential by diverse skills and perspectives	Limited exposure to real-world corporate communication scenarios

Topic Selection & Resource Identification

Our team chose Communication and Listening Skills because they are essential for effective collaboration, leadership, and relationship-building in any profession. Being able to express ideas clearly and listen with attention makes teamwork smoother and helps avoid misunderstandings.

Importance in Professional Growth
In today's workplace, good communication isn't just about talking, it's about connecting, understanding, and responding effectively. Improving these skills will help us engage and work better in teams, colleagues, handle feedback constructively, and grow into confident communicators and listeners.
